1. Copyright and publication agreement

- The author(s), being the copyright owner(s) of the aforementioned article, hereby transfer copyright ownership of the article to MAK Hill Publications for worldwide publication in all formats, languages and media. This copyright assignment becomes effective upon acceptance for publication. Additionally the author grants are publisher the authority to sublicense these rights to other entities and to utilize all subsidiary rights. (For individuals, such as government employees, who are unable to assign copyright, a non-exclusive license is acceptable-as outlined below.)

Please sign below if you are unable to assign copyright and can only grant non-exclusive publication rights

If you are only granting non-exclusive rights, please provide the reason:

2. Author's warranties

The author(s) warrant(s) that:

- The article is original, contains no unlawful statements, does not infringe the rights of others and that any necessary written permissions have been obtained by the author(s).
- All named authors(s) have the right to be named as authors according to the journal's authorship criteria and that no person with rights to be listed has been omitted from the list of authors
- The article has not been published elsewhere and is not under consideration by another journal.

3. Rights of author(s)

- The author(s) may use the article themselves for any non-commercial reasons, including dissemination and making derivative works (e.g book chapters or re-using figures in other articles or for teaching), as long as full attribution to the original work is made, to avoid accusations of plagiarism. Author(s) retain all proprietary rights related to the article, including patent and other intellectual property rights.
- The moral rights of the author(s) to be recognised as creators of the article will be respected at all times.

4. Co-authorship

- If the article was prepared jointly with other authors, the signatory of this form warrants that they have been authorised by all co-author(s) to sign this agreement on their behalf and agrees to inform all co-author(s) of the terms of this agreement
